

Kathleen Foley, MD

Medical Director, International Palliative Care Initiative, Public Health Program, Open Society Foundations

Attending Neurologist, Department of Neurology, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer
Center

Kathleen M. Foley is the medical director of the International Palliative Care Initiative of the Open Society Public Health Program. With her colleagues, she has developed scientific guidelines for the use of analgesic drug therapy through clinic pharmacologic studies of opioid drugs. She is an attending neurologist in the Pain & Palliative Care Service at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City and is also professor of neurology, neuroscience, and clinical pharmacology at Weill Medical College of Cornell University, and previous director of the WHO Collaborating Center for Cancer Pain Research and Education at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center. Foley holds the chair of the Society of Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in Pain Research. She is the past director of the Open Society Foundations Project on Death in America. Foley received the Distinguished Service Award and the Humanitarian Award from the American Cancer Society, the David Karnovsky Award from American Society of Clinical Oncology, and the Frank Netter Award from the American Academy of Neurology.